

SPORTS HALL OF FAME SELECTIONS ANNOUNCED

Dr. Jack McMullan, '53, Chairman of the Loyola of Montreal Sports Hall-of-Fame, and Dick Irvin, Chairman of the Selection Committee, announced on Tuesday, June 19th that four members were added to the Hall:

Ralph Toohy, '48, Dr. Bob Marchessault, '50, the late Dr. Don Gagnon, '54, and Gary Gagnon, '55.

Perhaps the best known of the quartet is Ralph Toohy. "Terrible Ralph" commenced his illustrious and at times controversial career at Loyola High School. In his first year he played Bantam, Junior, and Senior Football. After proving that he was too rugged for the Bantams and Juniors, he won a starting berth in the backfield with the Senior High squad. In the same academic year Ralph played Bantam and Junior Hockey. Throughout his remaining high school years, he performed in starry fashion with the Senior football and hockey squads. Not content with his role at Loyola, Toohy played a very bruising defence with the Montreal Royals Junior "A" Champions of the Province of Quebec.

In College he became the leader of the football and hockey squads. During this period he also was connected with a number of teams in the Provincial Hockey League. In the summer months he took to the diamond in the Senior Snowdon Fastball League.

But he was just getting started. Concentrating more and more on football, Ralph signed with the Montreal Alouettes. He was one of the "Eager Beavers" along with Keith English, Johnny Taylor and Glenn Douglas. After five years and one Grey Cup with the Als (1949), he was traded to the Hamilton Tiger Cats. Hamilton was his kind of team. He was very much at home with the rough, tough Ti-Cats. For seven years, four Grey Cup games (won three lost one), Ralph terrorized opposing quarterbacks from his defensive end position. A little quieter now, Ralph spends considerable time with his family. He is living in the Hamilton area and works for Eastgate Ford.

Bob Marchessault, who attended Loyola High School and College from 1942 through 1950, competed in football, hockey, track and field, and boxing. In 1945 and again in 1946, he was a Senior High School All-Star in football. The team won the interscholastic title both years. However, it was on the ice that Bob was to win his fame. He moved from Bantam, through Junior, to three years of stardom with the Senior High team. Scouts came from all corners of Montreal to watch the young centre in action. In 1945 he signed with Winged Wheelers Junior "B" team, then moved up to their Junior "A" team the following year. In 1947, again in Junior "A", with Sam Pollock as Coach, he signed

INCOMING PRESIDENT'S REMARKS AT ANNUAL MEETING MAY 28

In his address to members of the Association, Incoming President Desmond Lartigue commenting on the merger of Loyola and Sir George stated:

"Although one cannot depend entirely on hindsight, one can reasonably and accurately predict the future based on considerations of the past. I firmly believe that the traditions of Loyola will remain. I predict that a Jesuit intellectual presence on the campus will remain. If not Jesuit in fact, the traditional spirit of enquiry will remain. I predict the campus will maintain a Catholic character, both in the universal sense and the broad definition embracing all Christians, imparting in addition to scholarship, a quality of and meaning to life. And concern amongst students not only for material things but more importantly for people.

"Certainly one does not need to predict the continuance of the Loyola tone of academic excellence. The same applies to its athletic excellence, the latter being very much a part of the tradition of Loyola. However, the Association will need the support and active help of all alumni. The insurance of my predictions cannot be carried out by the Board of Directors alone.

"This is the beginning of a new foundation for Loyola but it is imperative that those of us who hold these traditions as important help to perpetuate what we feel is worth preserving. Remember, in a few short years the students will graduate from the new University. Only if the Loyola spirit a "C" form with the Canadiens. In 1948 and 1949 he played under Frank Carlin with the Senior Royals. 1950 saw him perform with the McGill Redmen. By this time Dr. Marchessault was concentrating on his studies but he found time to play "club" hockey in Philadelphia and Syracuse while doing post-doctoral work at Uppsala, but was not allowed to play because he had been paid by the Montreal Royals. At the time he wrote a letter to Sam Pollock telling him about the impressive play in Scandinavia. Sam replied that the Swedes and Russians could never be as "good as we are".

"In retrospect, the discipline, courage and teamwork required to participate in sports was unquestionably the source of whatever professional success I achieved afterwards." The words are Dr. Marchessault's.

Dr. Marchessault, head of the Chemistry Department, University of Montreal, is married with six children and resides in the Town of Mount Royal.

Don Gagnon, who died of cancer in 1968, went through the usual Loyola athletic process of playing Bantam, Junior and Senior High School football and hockey before graduating to College ranks. Throughout his High School and College career at Loyola and later, while studying Dentistry at McGill, Don was an excellent pass receiver and runner on the gridiron and a stellar blueline performer on ice.

During his College days at Loyola, Don was rated one of the most valuable players on both the football and hockey teams. A rugged individual, he always came to play. "Tiger" who never gave up as an athlete, demonstrated the same courage and tenacity when faced with death. He was an inspiration to all who visited with him. It is not surprising that he captained many teams, won All-Activity letters and a Most Valuable Player Award. He had the intestinal fortitude that coaches search for and teammates admire. Dr. Gagnon was a very well liked and respected dentist in the Lakeshore area of Montreal. He specialized in children's care and performed many valuable services for the West Island communities.

His wife Shirley and three children reside in Beaconsfield.

Dick Irvin, Chairman of the Selection Committee

Don's younger brother Gary entered Loyola in 1947. He immediately demonstrated his abilities in football and hockey. While he started his football career as a halfback, Gary was converted to quarterback and became one of the best, if not the best, quarterback, in Loyola's long football history. His hockey career was comparable to his football exploits. A fast skating, cunning, tireless centre, Gary led High School and College teams to championship after championship. In both sports he possessed the knack of being able to spot weaknesses in the opposition and was quick to capitalize. His approach was very business-like and he loved to play and win. In his four years of Varsity hockey at Loyola he led the Intercollegiate League in scoring three times. He won MVP awards and was elected to many All-Star teams.

After graduation Gary played a lot of hockey with M.A.A.A. in Montreal and intermediate hockey in Edmonton, Alberta. He then turned his hand to coaching and guided bantam and juvenile teams to championships in Edmonton and Winnipeg. Aside from hockey coaching, he is a keen participant in curling, golf, skiing and squash.

Gary lives in Edmonton and is employed by the Hudson Bay Company.

The four selectees for 1973-74 were aggressive leaders and all deserve the honor of being members of the Loyola Sports Hall-of-Fame.

BILL PELTON STEPS DOWN: HIS CLOSING REMARKS

"The problem we face is apathy; apathy from our members, apathy from our students, apathy within the community. It is not the only problem certainly. We have had to cope with the indefinite future status of Loyola; we have financial problems; we have undertaken to redefine our role so as to make a fuller contribution to Loyola; but the indifference, the inability to involve people or reach them, is what drains your enthusiasm and makes you wonder sometimes if your efforts are not futile."

"The problem is not unique to our organization. We are not alone in facing it— and we are not alone in facing to overcome it. The real question is, 'Did we make any progress?' and I don't really know. I think we did; I hope we did; but I don't know. I do know however that we tried, and if we may evaluate this past year on terms of effort, then it was a success."

These were the words spoken by Bill Pelton, the 1972-73 President when he addressed the Annual General Meeting of the Association.

After his opening remarks he reviewed the athletic, cultural, educational and social events sponsored by the Association, noting the successes and the failures.

He congratulated the various event Chairmen for their efforts and gave special acknowledgement to Dr. Jack McMullan (Hall-of-Fame), Frank McNally Jr. (Bonspiel), Baz Holland (Steppingstones), Larry Doherty (Bridges), Bud Patton (Warriors' Club), Larry Boyle (Student Loan Fund) and all members of the 1972-73 Board of Directors. He also had words of praise and thanks for the Administration of Loyola College, in particular President Malone.

remains strong will it prevail with students regardless of the name of the institution which appears on their degree."

Mr. Lartigue continued by emphasizing the role of the Alumni Association and its members.

"Therefore, in accepting the presidency of the Alumni Association for this coming year may I be allowed to paraphrase the late John F. Kennedy; ask not what the Association can do for you, but rather what can you, an alumnus, do for the Association. The purpose of any Alumni Association is to serve its members. It can do this best if it has a clear understanding of what its members want.

"Please feel free and somewhat obligated to express your views on how to preserve what we all hold dear, the maintenance of the Loyola tradition. Come forward with your suggestions to help equip your Association of today to adjust to the needs of tomorrow. The continuance of a strong tradition on and off the Loyola campus will have a beneficial effect on the greater academic community of the new University. Something that could lead to an even greater influence than would be possible under a strictly Loyola umbrella."

For the 1973-74 year he proposed the following:

1. Continue the normal pattern of social events especially the annual Golf game and Oyster party. Others will be added if financial successes can more or less be assured.

2. Emphasize the Hall-of-Fame event. This could do more for us publicly than most other single events.

3. In line with No. 2, if possible, to have a Loyola Medal winner this year. Again, this keeps Loyola's name in the forefront.

4. Encourage athletic events, such as Soccer and Hockey and Basketball. These have been most successful in the past and most economical. Moreover, as pointed out athletics are an important part of the Loyola spirit.

5. Maintain our Steppingstones project but taking it out now perhaps to other CEGEP's as a type of recruitment exercise for Loyola.

6. Reinforce the fine contacts between local businessmen and the College.

7. Add to our list of activities one that would be primarily geared for the many alumnae.

8. Pursue the cultural and educational needs of the Association and the greater Loyola community.

9. Improve our contacts with the student body both night and day divisions for two reasons:

a) Future membership;

b) Reflection of the Loyola tradition at the student level.

10. Finalize the Class Agent program.

In conclusion the incoming President said:

"With your help and the active support of the new slate of Directors, I have every confidence that the Association this year can plot a successful and viable course for the maintenance and active continuity of the Loyola tradition in the days to come."

LSA ENDORSES 'CONCORDIA'

Donald Boisvert and Mark Tigh, Co-Presidents of the Loyola Students' Association announced that a motion was passed unanimously on May 29th concerning the name 'Concordia' for the new University. "Be it resolved that the Loyola Students' Association Board of Directors support the adoption of the name 'Concordia' as the name of the new University created by the merger of Sir George Williams and Loyola."

The Loyola of Montreal Alumni Association Inc. has already announced its support of the name 'Concordia'.

REV. E. M. BROWN, S.J. A 1973 JUBILARIAN

On his first visit to Loyola in 1923 Edward Michael Brown did not receive a very auspicious welcome. The Rector had forgotten to gather his counsellors for the customary juridical examination of the young 18 year old candidate for the Society of Jesus. The Rector also compounded the confusion by asking questions about his teachers and class-mates at Loyola. It took some time for the young Edward to establish that he was a graduate of Catholic High School.

How surprised the then Rector would have been, if he had been told that seventeen years later, the young man would be one of his successors as Rector of Loyola.

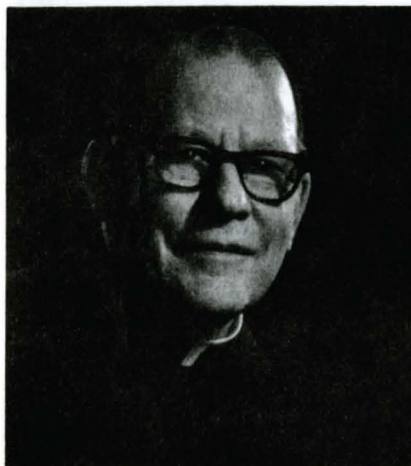

The scholastic Rev. E. M. Brown, S.J. taught at Loyola in 1930-31 and produced among other plays the success "It Pays to Advertise". The play starred Tim Slattery, '31, Walter Elliott, '31, and Bill McQuillan, '31. It must have been good. It played for several nights at Victoria Hall, Westmount.

Father Ed Brown was Rector from 1940 to 1948. Within a couple of years of his inauguration, the quiet zeal and competence of Father Hugh McPhee and the brilliant, dynamic drive of Father Eric O'Connor were rewarded by Father Brown's diplomatic negotiations with the University of Montreal. A new Faculty of Science and Engineering began at Loyola, and very soon the eminent and well-remembered Frank Guadagni joined with the charter members to add further distinction to the new Faculty.

Later at the end of World War II, a Faculty of Commerce was started for the veterans, who flocked to Loyola, and has since flourished. The pioneers of the Commerce Faculty were Larry Bessner, Des McNamee, Frank McMahon and Frank Hayes.

Father Brown had much success with and cooperation from the Loyola Mothers. Mrs. J. O. Asselin and Mrs. Bob Meagher were among those women who made great contributions in service to the College and High School.

Should some of the older alumni have forgotten, it was Father Brown who introduced the full holiday on Saturday in place of Wednesday and Saturday afternoons. He was also instrumental in providing living accommodations and class space for refugee students during the war, and in recruiting students for the western harvest.

Rev. E. Brown has a Teachers' Certificate from London University, a B.A. and a Ph.D. from the Gregorian University. He will celebrate as a Jubilarian on September 6, 1973.

Other Jubilarians to be celebrated in 1973 are Joseph P. Jordan, S.J. (October 8), Thomas J. Walsh, S.J. (November 12), Thomas A. Hynes, S.J. (November 26), John H. Mitchell, S.J. (September 7), Horatio P. Phelan, S.J. (July 30), Harold J. Bedford, S.J. (July 30), Alex F. X. Rolland, S.J. (September 10), G. Edwin McCormac, S.J. (September 20), Charles S. Bathurst, S.J. (September 8), and Alfred J. Monaghan, S.J. (September 19). Rev. A. Francis Breslin, S.J., who celebrated his sixtieth anniversary on February 1, 1973, was profiled in a previous edition of the Alumnus.
